Introduction

The Bayside Council Arts and Culture Strategy 2024-2029 has been carefully researched and crafted to strengthen Bayside's commitment and support for the arts across all forms. Bayside is an exciting place to live, work and play, and now is the time to position ourselves within the wider arts landscape. This strategy forms an overarching vision with a proactive and realistic approach to take the next steps.

Located around the foreshore of Kamay / Botany Bay, and adjacent to Australia's largest airport and seaport, Bayside forms the gateway to Sydney, and for many, Australia.

Bayside is on the lands and waterways of the Bidjigal and Gadigal People of the Eora Nation, who have lived on Country for thousands of years. Kamay / Botany Bay and its surrounds is the site of first contact between Australia's First Nations People and the early settlers of this country, an event that changed the course of this country's story.

Today, our suburbs are made up of a diverse population from across the globe, living and working together.

This important location of arrival and change presents a vibrant place where arts and culture are influenced by both a local and global community, creating a unique cultural exchange in Southern Sydney.

Bayside, and the former councils of Rockdale and Botany Bay, have traditionally been known for their outstanding sporting facilities and successful sporting clubs and organisations. The interest in the arts in Southern Sydney has grown rapidly as the landscape of the local government area has changed bringing a new wave of residents and businesses, including many from the creative industries – such as visual artists, musicians, ceramicists, writers and actors – who now call Bayside home.

This strategy addresses the creative shift in our community and provides a pathway for making the arts and culture part of our everyday lives.

Through this strategy council looks forward to working closely with this growing community to raise the profile of arts and culture in Bayside as well as improving the programs and activities accessible by the wider community and utilizing murals and sculptures to improve the visual amenity.

Finding opportunities to create new cultural spaces is key to expanding Bayside's artistic and cultural output and will help creativity to flourish in our community. A proactive calendar of public programs will highlight arts and culture in our neighbourhoods, while bringing new ideas from further afield.

To be a proactive leader in the arts, Bayside will create meaningful relationships with its local cultural communities, provide creative opportunities for its residents and seek out key partnerships. This includes working with Creative NSW to promote Bayside as a destination of choice for location scouts within the film industry; encouraging major events to the area; and promoting Bayside as a tourist destination.

Economically, the cultural sector generates significant social benefits to NSW, generating revenue, and creating jobs. Expanding investment to cultural organisations, artists and creative industries provides a proven return on investment of $1.88 to every dollar spent.*

From humble beginnings supporting local theatre companies, cultural organizations and music programs, Bayside looks forward to becoming a place where the Arts are incorporated into our everyday lives, and a place where creative seeds are sown and new ideas grow.

Vision

Bayside is Sydney's gateway, a place steeped in history where new ideas connect with traditional customs.

Our city's unique stories are told through its artistic and cultural output.

Through a proactive arts and culture strategy, Bayside will become a thriving creative cultural exchange.

Bayside aims to strengthen its growing arts community, supporting the regions thriving cultural ecosystem while encouraging a healthy creative economy.

Purpose

To develop arts and culture at a local level with a meaningful and long term strategy, strengthening creativity across our neighbourhoods and increasing Bayside's arts and culture profile.
